KLH WELCOMES BACK THE LEGENDARY MODEL FIVE

After decades of silence, the KLH Model Five has officially returned to our listening rooms, livelier and louder than ever. Our new, iconic version of the late 1960s original roots straight from the heart of KLH, honoring the acoustic suspension design principles made famous by KLH founder Henry Kloss. The 1968 Model Five was one of the best-selling loudspeakers of its era and served as the heart and soul of KLH’s success in the industry for decades. KLH was eager to revamp and evolve this floor standing loudspeaker to become the new shape of sound- so that’s what we did.

The acoustic suspension system remains at the core of the updated Model Five but has been redefined, using modern-day technology and principles to articulate high-fidelity sound anywhere, in any room. The relaunch of this three-way loudspeaker was designed around the acoustic suspension design principle and the dedicated mid-range driver. The renowned acoustic design provides exceptional bass extension, resolution, and accuracy from a small enclosure while the midrange driver is specifically designed to reproduce the mid-frequency band, resulting in remarkable clarity of vocals and instruments.

The Model Five commands every room with its charming aesthetic appeal made up of genuine wood veneers, cast aluminum frames, and Old-World Linen cloth grilles that are decorated with the classic KLH cast-zinc logo in the lower left-hand corner. Not to mention, this remarkable speaker is environmentally responsible as it is made with sustainable materials and packaging.
